High-performance liquid chromatography (HPLC; formerly referred to as high-pressure liquid chromatography) is a technique in analytical chemistry used to separate, identify, and quantify each component in a mixture. It relies on pumps to pass a pressurized liquid solvent containing the sample mixture through a column filled with a solid adsorbent material.

2 AAN013 lead to reduce performance and eventual breaking of the film. A low De number stands for a predominately viscous behavior, a high De number for an elastic material response.

Synthetic polymers are human-made polymers. From the utility point of view they can be classified into four main categories: thermoplastics, thermosets, elastomers and synthetic fibers. They are found commonly in a variety of consumer products such as money, glue, etc.

Dendritic polymers, including dendrimers and hyperbranched polymers (HBPs), are popular research topics that have attracted a great amount of interest from both academic and industrial researchers, which is attributable to their unique three-dimensional highly-branched topologies, multi-functionalities, special chemical and physical properties, and potentially broad applications.

The International Journal of High Performance Computing Applications provides a lively forum for the communications of original research papers and timely review articles on the use of supercomputers to solve complex modeling problems in a spectrum of disciplines. The emphasis will be on experiences with the use of supercomputers rather than on the exposition of computational results peculiar ...
